

Carlos Medina

His passion for the arts started when he was a student in high school. Carlos started studying mime and physical theater with Expression Profética Company, eventually, performing as part of the group doing local and international trips to Italy. He decided to guide his career into film and arts and received his bachelors at the University of Puerto Rico as a part of the student and professional arts company and acrobatics productions. After graduating college he decided to return to his hometown and work with the Imaginare Performance Arts as a teacher and performer. This gave him the opportunity to travel to both North and South America teaching aerial and acro partnering. Carlos moved to Orlando in 2010 and currently works as a performer at Walt Disney World and a tumbler/performer at Universal Studios Orlando. Carlos is one of the silks teacher's at Ready, Set Dance. Bringing his love of aerial silks to our students!
